ANOTHER SETBACK FOR GALLAUDET

Craven, Veteran First Baseman, Sent to Hospital.

The Gallaudet College baseball prospects received another jolt when it was announced yesterday that Bird Craven, the veteran first baseman, had to go to the hospital with measles. This misfortune, closely following the temporary retirement of Shortstops Roller and Jacobson from the 'varsity team several days ago, is making the Kendall Green baseball authorities anxious as to what happens the next, especially during this treacherous March weather.

It is presumed that Miller, the husky young Maryland freshman, who has been covering the first sack alternately with Craven in practice, will be placed at the first station pending the veteran's recovery. The hole at shortstop has been filled by Durian's "come back." The latter was a utility man last year, and would have had a regular infield position but for his sore right arm. His throwing wing did not hurt him in the practice last week, and it would not be surprising if he will give Roller and Jacobson a hard battle for the varsity shortstop in case the two absentees return to the Manager Harris has made some change in the Gallaudet intercollegiate schedule. The opening game on March 25, between Mount St. Joseph's College and Gallaudet, will be played in Baltimore instead of at Kendall Green in order to have a game between these two friendly rivals at Gallaudet Field on Saturday, May 13, during the presentation week, which was changed by the faculty of the East Side college from the week beginning with

May 1 to the week beginning with May 8. Harris is still hopeful of second game with Georgetown University for the intercollegiate baseball championship of this District.

Capt. Battiste is a full-blooded Cataclare he is almost a duplicate of "Chief" Bender, the great Indian pitcher of the Philadelphia world's champions. In fact, the Gallaudet Indian has often seen the Philadelphia redskin in action and where cyclones reign supreme. The catching department of the Buff and Blue nine is decidedly superior to that of the previous season. Walter Rockwell is a graduate of the Connecticut School at Hartford, and this is his second season on the Gallaudet 'varsity nine. Byrne, a junior from Iowa, and

Decker, a new student from Kansas, will help him out in case of necessity. First Baseman Craven Sick, First base is a hard problem just now at Gallaudet, as Craven, the veteran guardian of that sack, is down with measles, and Battiste is trying out Miller, a Maryland freshman, at the first station. The keystone sack, which has always been a weak spot on the Buff and Blue nine, is being well cared for by Elwood Stevenson, a new New York player. He was the leading swatter on his Empire State nine last season, and is conceded to be a finished infielder. The difficult corner is in the hands of John T. Hower, the veteran Gallaudet all-around athlete. This is Hower's last year at the college, as he graduates June, and his clever fielding and deadly stick work will be sadly missed by Gallaudet next year. He was on The Wash-
